June 12, 2012. While we didn't have an event on the Monday, two Slammers had their fair share of golf. Every time a Slammer three-putts, the Make A Wish Foundation, Eastern Ontario, receives fifty cents.

As we all know this goes a long way to make children with life-threatening illnesses have a wish come true. We have reached a level where the foundation offered two lucky Slammers spots in the 100 holes of golf event held at Loch March.

KidsClub and Hacker represented the Slammer Tour well and completed 100 holes. The question is: how many three-putts guys?

Tuesday at Stonebridge and Sunday at eQuinelle tie for the largest events of the week. Both had 24 Slammers a piece and the same first star. KaDaver is going strong this spring and leads the tour's earnings race, Evolution Physio skins race and is tied for first in the Canadian birdies race.

Other notables from the Stonebridge event were that two rookies took second and third star honours: Davestator and The Compressor.

Another similarity between these two events was that two rookies also took second and third star honours at the eQuinelle event. Congrats to Chill and Robo!

Quote of the week: "After four-putting I need shock treatment!" Is there really a rule that a four-putt is worth two bucks to the kids? It's not written but I think it's obvious that it is the least you could do after one of those!

Thanks to Lucky for coordinating the small but important event at the Canadian on the Thursday. Three rookies joined Lucky and what better Slammer to play with in your rookie season. Lethal proved himself worthy for the first star.

The Marshes is always a treat and with the beautiful weather we had all week and weekend it made springlakes' first star effort that much better.

After making four birdies on the tough track, springlakes jumped into the top ten, which of course moves almost every Slammer down one notch. Five matches went to the dreaded 18th hole — four of which ended up in defences rather than ranking volatility.

Is Lombard Glen still serving those amazing hotdogs on the patio? I'm hungry now (stop digressing, Malone, you're almost finished).

Five dogs, (not hot dogs) enabled IronMaiden to extend her lead in the doggie race. Worthy of a first star performance and kudos from many Slammers.

On the same day, GreenReader read the greens beautifully at Casselview to finish with a 3-0 record by the 14th hole. Solid! Pouf was also out for his first event and received second star honours for a couple of wins on the 18th hole. Also a tough finishing hole!

Make sure to try some of the double header days that are coming up. The more golf the better!

Also, visit the special events section and register for the doggie extravaganza events at the beautiful White Sands.
